Practice Groups

Trusts, Estates + Elder Law

Neil is a Partner in the Trusts, Estates and Elder Law group at the firm. He has practiced for close over 30 years and concentrates his practice in the areas of elder care, estate planning, disability planning, probate, estate and trust administration, gift and generation-skipping tax transfer planning, asset protection, special needs planning and guardianships. He advises clients relating to government programs available to assist seniors with health care needs, particularly custodial care and the array of housing options available to them. Neil has helped many couples with health care and estate planning, working in conjunction with a variety of professionals including accountants and geriatric care managers. He advises clients on long-term care insurance and protection of assets while providing for future care needs.

He regularly helps families with disabled children. This type of planning involves an in-depth knowledge of the services available in the community as well as legal issues, including private and institutional supplemental needs trusts.
